The following letter from Gen. Ujhazy, the Hungarian Chief, has been received by M. Rabet, President of the

to the ICABIAN COMMUNITY THROUGH ITS PRESIDENT, MR. CABET.

Dear Brothers and Citizens:—It will be soon three years since I had the honor of visiting your colony, and of making the acquaintance of many members of your community, and of your highly esteemed President, M. Cabet. It was as agreeable as instructive for me to see reduced to practice that social doctrine which should soon become the general law of the human race.

As all the true and noble principles of liberty had their source in the heart and the spirit of France, it is very natural that the social reform should be commenced by the same nation. Being a Hungarian, I have always cherished a most profound sympathy, and even a fraternal love, for your people; and if I could have two native lands, I should wish that Hungary be the first and France the second.

During my residence of two years and a half in the State of Iowa, where the silence of my retreat was interrupted only by the sounds of labor, in the bosom of nature, you have honored me by sending me your journal, thus casting spiritual rays into the obscurity of my solitude.

It is time to express to you my gratitude. I sincerely creely thank you for the mark of friendship and attention which you have furnished by your esteemed journal.

My best wishes will always be for the progress and the well being of your colony.

Saluting you fraternally, I remain your very grateful

Destructive Storm in Philadelphia.
[From the Philadelphia Inquirer, April 15.]

The storm which prevailed about half past 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was for a time one of the most violent that has occurred for years past. The wind came from the west and blew with unprecedented force, causing no little destruction in different parts of the city. The roofs of three warehouses, Nos. 115, 117 and 119 North Front street, east side above Vine, were blown completely off, and over into Delaware avenue, a distance of about three hundred feet. A portion of the front walls on Front street, together with most of the windows, were blown in. These stores extend through to Water street, and the upper parts of the fronts on that street were blown out, filling the street with debris. The first store, No. 115, was occupied by the adjoining building. The second, No. 117, was occupied by a looking glass frame manufactured by Messrs. Seeger & Co. The third, No. 119, was occupied by a number of carpenters.

A portion of the roof and joist attached, fell upon a man who happened to be passing along Delaware avenue, injuring him in a dreadful manner. He was cut in a shocking manner about the head.

A portion of the roof and joist attached, fell upon a man adjoining Messrs. A. & J. Wright's flour store, completely crushing it in. A young woman, who occupies the place as a cake stand, made a narrow escape from death. Two men, whose names we were unable to learn, were slightly injured by the falling timbers. The stores Nos. 115 and 119 were open when the blow came on, and were much more damaged than the intermediate ones, which was completely closed.

In the upper part of Kensington, the gable ends of two new dwelling houses were blown in, but fortunately no one was injured.

In the lower end of the square a number of trees were blown down and others stript of their limbs.

The roof of Edwards' new hotel, on the west side of Broad street, below Chesnut, was blown off, and several houses in that vicinity considerably damaged.

Washington Russell, the man that was injured on Delaware avenue, was conveyed to the hospital, when it was ascertained that his injuries, although severe, were not

The roof of Messrs. Balle's new sand stone building in Cherry street, opposite the Mint, was also blown off, and came near crushing an omnibus full of passengers, which happened to be in the vicinity at the time.

A derrick used at Messrs. Cornelius & Co.'s new manufactory, in Cherry street, was blown down. The end of it fell upon one of the workmen, named James McGinley, breaking his ribs, cutting his head, and otherwise seriously injuring him. He was immediately conveyed to the hospital.

The rain and wind were accompanied by considerable lightning, but the only accident, which we heard of from PHILADELPHIA MAIL MISSING.—The letter man from New York for this city, due here last night, has not arrived at the Philadelphia Post Office. It is a very important mail, and its failure causes much inconvenience. A telegraphic despatch inquiring about it, was sent, to the Postmaster at New York, the reply to which was, that it had been duly sent from that office. The probability is that it has been accidentally sent in a wrong direction.—
